Machine Safety Symposium: The Real Value of Safety

As the world's largest safety system provider, Rockwell Automation is proud to sponsor a Machine Safety Symposium along with EECO. This unique event will be held on two days, in two different locations.

Rockwell Automation helps companies achieve operational excellence and safer working environments through improved understanding of the new, global machine safety standards and practices. This, combined with expertise in specific manufacturing and machine control needs, allows Rockwell Automation to help you meet your goal of safe, sustainable, intelligent automation.

Modern Safety Designs for Improved Safety and Productivity

Through practical examples and applications, you will learn about:

- The value of risk assessment
- Strategic importance of following a safe design process
- Design safety INTO – not “Onto” a machine
- Strategic approaches to safety, Risk Assessment, and Solutions

Safeguarding Techniques, Global Standards

- Machine Designers engineer machines that offer safer ways of interacting, servicing, and even maintaining.
- Understand global approaches to Machine Safety including ISO13849, SISTEMA, and Safety Automation Builder
